Momentum Grows for Statewide Government Transparency with Over 675 Local Government and School Districts Partnering with OhioCheckbook.com

Press Release - Ohio Treasurer's Office

PROCTORVILLE – Ohio Treasurer Josh Mandel announced today the launch of the Village of Proctorville online checkbook on OhioCheckbook.com. In December 2014, Treasurer Mandel launched OhioCheckbook.com, which sets a new national standard for government transparency and for the first time in Ohio history puts all state spending information on the internet. OhioCheckbook.com recently earned Ohio the number one government transparency ranking in the country for a second year in a row.

The Ohio Treasurer's office was joined at today's announcement by Village of Proctorville Fiscal Officer Darrell Legg. The Village of Proctorville is the first local government in Lawrence County to post their spending on OhioCheckbook.com.

Proctorville's online checkbook includes over 3,500 individual transactions that represent more than $1.2 million of total spending over the past four years.

"I believe the people of Lawrence County have a right to know how their tax money is being spent, and I applaud local leaders here for partnering with my office to post the finances on OhioCheckbook.com," said Treasurer Mandel. "By posting local government spending online, we are empowering taxpayers across Ohio to hold public officials accountable."

"We, as representatives of the village government, felt that participation in the Ohio Treasurer's OhioCheckbook.com initiative allowed us to best demonstrate our commitment to governmental transparency, our devotion to upholding the responsibility of fiscal conservation to our citizens, and to allow us to disseminate information to those who are considering doing business with our town, said Fiscal Officer Darrell Legg. "We feel that this is the most appropriate way to allow us to interact with those interested in our town's official business. We also feel this allows interested parties an opportunity to see what it takes to run a small town and use this information along with other sources to better understand our operations."

On April 7, 2015 Treasurer Mandel sent a letter to 18,062 local government and school officials representing 3,962 local governments throughout the state calling on them to place their checkbook level data on OhioCheckbook.com and extending an invitation to partner with his office at no cost to local governments. These local governments include cities, counties, townships, schools, library districts and other special districts.

A large coalition of statewide and local government organizations have expressed support for OhioCheckbook.com and local government transparency, including:

In March 2015, the U.S. Public Interest Research Group (U.S. PIRG) released their annual “Following the Money 2015” report and Treasurer Mandel earned Ohio the number one transparency ranking in the country for providing online access to government spending data. Ohio was prominently featured in the report after climbing from 46th to 1st in spending transparency as a result of Treasurer Mandel’s release of OhioCheckbook.com. Due to the launch of OhioCheckbook.com, Ohio received a perfect score of 100 points this year – the highest score in the history of the U.S. PIRG transparency rankings.

In April 2016, U.S. PIRG announced that Treasurer Mandel earned Ohio the number one government transparency ranking in the country for the second consecutive year in a row. Due to the launch of OhioCheckbook.com, Ohio again received the highest perfect score of 100 points this year – marking the second time in two years Ohio received the highest possible score in the history of the U.S. PIRG transparency rankings.

The Treasurer’s office is partnering with OpenGov, a leading Silicon Valley government technology company, to provide residents of Ohio the ability to view and search local government expenditures in a user-friendly, digital format. “Ohio is setting the standard for financial transparency on an unprecedented scale.
