With the current state of the economic climate, many small businesses have struggled to survive. By taking advantage of the GrowNOW program through the Ohio Treasurer's Office, however, local business P&J Manufacturing was able to stay afloat.

"The money kept us going through a bad time," P&J Manufacturing owner Peter Harvey said. "We were able to put on a portion of a new roof and will do the other half later this year. We were able to keep all the guys we had, add some new guys and some automation equipment that allowed me to speed things up to get stuff out the door faster."
