STATE TREASURER OF OHIO

Momentum Grows for Statewide Government Transparency with Over 770 Local Government and School Districts Partnering with OhioCheckbook.com

Press Release - Ohio Treasurer's Office

WELLSVILLE – Ohio Treasurer Josh Mandel announced today the launch of the City of East Liverpool and Village of Wellsville's online checkbooks on OhioCheckbook.com. In December 2014, Treasurer Mandel launched OhioCheckbook.com, which sets a new national standard for government transparency and for the first time in Ohio history puts all state spending information on the internet. OhioCheckbook.com recently earned Ohio the number one government transparency ranking in the country for a second year in a row.

The Ohio Treasurer's office was joined at today's announcement by East Liverpool Auditor Marilyn Bosco, Wellsville Mayor Nancy Murray and State Representative Tim Ginter. East Liverpool is the third city in Columbiana County post their spending on OhioCheckbook.com, and Wellsville is the third village in Columbiana County to post their spending on OhioCheckbook.com.

The following is a breakdown of today's local government sites:

East Liverpool's online checkbook includes over 10,000 individual transactions that represent more than $15.3 million of total spending over Fiscal Year 2015.

Wellsville's online checkbook includes over 12,000 individual transactions that represent more than $6 million of total spending over the past three years.

"I believe the people of Columbiana County have a right to know how their tax money is being spent, and I applaud local leaders here for partnering with my office to post the finances on OhioCheckbook.com," said Treasurer Mandel. "By posting local government spending online, we are empowering taxpayers across Ohio to hold public officials accountable."

"Success in government can only be achieved through transparency and accountability," said East Liverpool Mayor Ryan Stoval. "The citizens of East Liverpool deserve to know how their money is being spent, OhioCheckbook.com will allow for that. After all it is the people's money we are spending."

"Nancy Murray, Mayor of Wellsville promised the public to provide transparency for the financial office during her campaign," said Fiscal Officer Hoi Black. "Through this website, the public could view and are better informed with the financial situation of the Village. She's very glad that her campaign promise has been fulfilled."

"Increased transparency will help build a strong relationship between local communities and the public," said State Senator Joe Schiavoni. "I am glad that Wellsville can provide their residents easy access to local finances and expenditures with OhioCheckbook.com."

On April 7, 2015 Treasurer Mandel sent a letter to 18,062 local government and school officials representing 3,962 local governments throughout the state calling on them to place their checkbook level data on OhioCheckbook.com and extending an invitation to partner with his office at no cost to local governments. These local governments include cities, counties, townships, schools, library districts and other special districts.

A large coalition of statewide and local government organizations have expressed support for OhioCheckbook.com and local government transparency, including:

- Ohio Municipal League
- Ohio Township Association
- Ohio Association of School Business Officials
- Buckeye Association of School Administrators
- County Commissioner Association of Ohio
- County Auditor Association of Ohio
- Ohio Newspaper Association
- Ohio Society of CPAs
- Buckeye Institute
- Common Cause Ohio

OhioCheckbook.com was launched on December 2, 2014, marking the first time in Ohio history when citizens could actually see every expenditure in state government. Since its launch, OhioCheckbook.com has received overwhelming support from newspapers and groups across the state and, as of August 16, 2016 there have been more than 600,000 total searches on the site.

OhioCheckbook.com displays more than $534 billion in spending over the past eight years, including more than 147 million transactions. The website includes cutting-edge features such as:

- “Google-style” contextual search capabilities, to allow users to sort by keyword, department, category or vendor;
- Fully dynamic interactive charts to drill down on state spending;
- Functionality to compare state spending year-over-year or among agencies; and,
- Capability to share charts or checks with social media networks, and direct contact for agency fiscal offices.

In March 2015, the U.S. Public Interest Research Group (U.S. PIRG) released their annual “Following the Money 2015” report and Treasurer Mandel earned Ohio the number one transparency ranking in the country for providing online access to government spending data. Ohio was prominently featured in the report after climbing from 46th to 1st in spending transparency as a result of Treasurer Mandel’s release of OhioCheckbook.com. Due to the launch of OhioCheckbook.com, Ohio received a perfect score of 100 points this year — the highest score in the history of the U.S. PIRG transparency rankings.

In April 2016, U.S. PIRG announced that Treasurer Mandel earned Ohio the number one government transparency ranking in the country for the second consecutive year in a row. Due to the launch of OhioCheckbook.com, Ohio again received the highest perfect score of 100 points this year – marking the second time in two years Ohio received the highest possible score in the history of the U.S. PIRG transparency rankings.

The Treasurer's office is partnering with OpenGov, a leading Silicon Valley government technology company, to provide residents of Ohio the ability to view and search local government expenditures in a user-friendly, digital format. "Ohio is setting the standard for financial transparency on an unprecedented scale. We are excited to partner with the Treasurer's office to bring world-class technology to communities large and small across the state," said Zachary Bookman, CEO of OpenGov.
